

You are invited to an unusual alumni event

The Board of Directors of Women in the Lead Inc.
and

Ivey Alumni Association of B.C.

Invite you to attend a Woman Who Lead event

To be held at The Vancouver Club, 915 West Hastings Street

Monday November 17, 2008

Presentation followed by a reception 4:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Featured speakers: Carol Stephenson, Dean, Richard Ivey School of Business:

Ten lessons I have learned from serving on Boards

Sarah Morgan-Silvester, Chancellor University of B.C.:

Lets celebrate the 800 women listed in the new directory

Sarah Morgan-Silvester (right), recently selected Chancellor of University of British Columbia, Sarah serves on numerous boards, among them Port Metro Vancouver (chair), ENMAX Corporation, BC Women's Hospital and Health Centre Foundation, David Suzuki Foundation National Business Advisory Council and Women in the Lead.

She has a diverse business background with leadership roles in the transportation, financial services and energy sectors. Until recently, she was President and CEO of HSBC Trust Company (Canada) and EVP, Personal Financial Services and Wealth Management, HSBC Bank Canada.

Carol Stephenson (left), Dean of the Richard Ivey School of Business since 2003, Carol has had an illustrious career in the telecommunications industry. She was President and CEO of Lucent Technologies Canada (1999-2003), President and CEO of Sentor Resource Centre Inc (1995-98) and previous to that held many management and executive positions in Bell Canada.

Carol currently serves on the Vancouver Olympic Games Organizing Committee, Ontario Research Fund Advisory Board, ING Canada board, Women in the Lead and the General Motors Canada Advisory Board.

Charge for the event is $40 per person. R.S.V.P. to Shirley Wang registration@womenintheleadinc.ca or register directly online at www.womeninthelead.ca/Nov17Vancouver Space is limited.

Through its support CIBC is making possible Women in the Lead's new luncheon series "Women Who Lead". These popular "sold out" events have taken place in Ottawa and Toronto with plans to extend the series to other key cities. Outstanding speakers have included: Annette Verschuren, President The Home Depot Canada and Asia; Maureen Kempston Darkes, General Motors Group Vice President GM Latin America, Africa and Middle East (LAAM) and Irene Rosenfeld, Chairman and CEO Kraft Foods. The full text of their speeches can be found on our website www.womeninthelead.ca.

-----
National in scope, it lists the professional expertise, responsibilities, contributions and recognition of more than 800 accomplished women. As their résumés show, they have distinguished themselves in a wide variety of sectors including business, law, finance, technology, medicine, engineering, higher education, government, media, entertainment, entrepreneurial and not-for-profit organizations. Thirty-five languages-other than English, are represented. Women based in Quebec have their résumés appearing in both English and French. They have extensive board experience and serve, or have served, on over 3000 boards representing corporate, government and not-for-profit organizations.

To order this directory and online database visit:

www.womeninthelead.ca/ordering.htm

